

Call for Presentations

Environmental Histories - Environmental Futures: China in International Perspective

This is a call for presentations for a workshop on “Environmental Histories - Environmental Futures: China in International Perspective” that will take place on November 23 at Peking University, China. The workshop will focus on the relationship between China’s past and future role in world politics and world ecology. The conveners of the workshop, Prof. Bao Maohong (Peking University) and Prof. Christof Mauch (LMU) are asking scholars from the fields of environmental history, anthropology, sociology, politics, and related disciplines to submit titles and short abstracts (100-150 words) by July 21, 2018 to

CarsonCenter@lmu.de

All scholars who are selected will be invited to take part in the events related to this year’s LMU-ChAN Scientific Forum on “Interactions - Translations” from November 22-24, 2018. Funding for travel from Munich may be available to LMU affiliates.
